ZERBY, KURTZ & TAYLOR FIX DEMOCRATIC SLATE

Same Old Crowd Make Ticket for County Democrats.

ALL TO HELP TAYLOR

Indications are that there will be a rather light vote at the primaries in Centre County next Tuesday. Farmers generally are busy and many of them will not leave their work to go to the poles if the weather is fair.

On the Republican side there are contests for every important county office, except Prothonotary, with several aspirants in the field for each nomination. At this stage of the matter one guess is about as good as another as to who will come through as the winners.

On the Democratic side, however, it is another story. The old Zerby-Kurtz-Taylor combination has fixed up the following slate and the orders are to have it nominated:

Sheriff—E. R. Taylor, of Bellefonte.

Treasurer—Lyman Smith, of Centre Hall.

District Attorney—Arthur Dale, of Bellefonte.

County Commissioners—John Spearly, of Benner Township, and James M. Swabb, of Harris Township.

Recorder—Sinie Hoy, of Benner Township.

The same combination is backing Claude Herr, of Bellefonte, for Prothonotary, and F. S. Ocker, also of Bellefonte, for Register.

The Zerby-Kurtz-Taylor slate-makers have ordered the defeat of Elmer Breon, of Bellefonte, who entered himself as a candidate for Sheriff. They have also blacklisted William Carson, of Bellefonte, an aspirant for County Treasurer. At the same time they have stacked the cards against John W. Yearick, of Marion Township, the Democratic member of the present board of commissioners, who is filling out the unexpired term of the late George M. Harter.

Whether the Zerby-Kurtz-Taylor slate is nominated next Tuesday will hinge largely upon the passiveness of the Democrats throughout the county.

The orders to prevent the success of William Carson's candidacy for County Treasurer mark the culmination of a cruel trick framed up against that estimable gentleman. Mr. Carson's real aspiration and intention was to become the Democratic nominee for Sheriff. When the Zerby-Kurtz-Taylor combination managers discovered this they hunted up Mr. Carson and after much effort prevailed upon him to quit as a candidate for Sheriff and enter himself for County Treasurer. This was done to help the slating of Taylor for Sheriff. Mr. Carson was accompanied to the Court House and his escorts kept in touch with him until they were sure that his petition designated the office of County Treasurer and not that of Sheriff. Then they deserted him. When the unsuspecting Mr. Carson was shunted out of Taylor's path he did not know that the Zerby-Kurtz-Taylor crowd already had slated Lyman Smith for Treasurer. When he discovered how he had been buncoed it was to late to take out a petition for Sheriff. He was the victim of a cold-blooded trick.

Zerby aims to be the power behind the throne if he can nominate and elect Taylor to the Sheriff's office. And if he can put this over, his next step will be to make himself Judge of Centre County.

P. H. GHERRITY HURT

Struck by Auto as He Stepped from Fire Truck.

P. H. Gherrity, formerly postmaster in Bellefonte and one of our well known residents, had a narrow escape from serious injury on last Friday evening when he was struck by a touring car driven by Louis Hill. The whole affair was one of those misfortunes which seem bound to occur at intervals and noblame was attached to anyone.

Mr. Gherrity was out with other members of the Undine Hose company in a test trip with the fire truck and had just returned. As the truck was stopped in front of the hose house on Bishop street he stepped from it and started across the street, not noticing the approach of the Hill car. He did see it, however, just in time to get a firm hold on the front of the car which prevented his being run over by the wheels. In being dragged along until the touring car could be stopped he sustained some painful bruises, especially on his legs, but there were no bones broken and his early recovery is expected.

AUTO DEALERS PICNIC

Centre County Association Members Are Not to Talk Shop.

It is difficult to believe that several dozen live-wire, energetic automobile dealers could assemble anywhere without doing a considerable amount of "talking shop." Most anybody would say, off-hand, "it can't be done."

Be that as it may, such is the program, signed, sealed and sworn to, for today's basket picnic and outing of the Centre County Auto Dealers Association at Hecla Park. Present also will be the families and friends of members of the association. An enjoyable time is in store.

Just what "talking shop" may be interpreted to mean upon such an occasion will probably be open to question. If some auto dealers whom we happen to know refrain from commenting on prices of cars, latest features of various makes, etc., the day will go down in history as exceptional. The point, is, however, that the usual hustling to sell cars will be barred by mutual consent, and the day given over strictly to pleasure.

Which reminds us of the story of two profoundly religious men, one wanting to buy some hay, and the other having hay for sale. They were on their way to Sunday morning service.

"If it were tomorrow," said the one, "what would be the cost to me for a load of prime hay?"

"If it were tomorrow," replied the other, "it would cost you $15.42."

"Well," rejoined the first speaker, "then I think that if it were tomorrow I should order it."

Needless to explain, the load of hay was delivered bright and early the following morning.

Which anecdote has no application, at all, for auto dealers do not, of course, buy or sell hay, even though they make a lot of it when the sun shines.

Centre Countians in Japan.

Two Centre County girls—the Misses Betty and Sarah Stevenson—sailed from San Francisco last Saturday for Japan where they will be engaged for some time to come in the great section devastated by earthquakes and fire. They are daughters of George F. Stevenson, of Waddle, and are trained nurses in the service of the United States Army. They had contemplated sailing for the Philippine Islands during the latter part of September, expecting to be located there in the military service for an indefinite period. A telegram on Saturday announced that they were already on their way to Japan, being among the first trained nurses to be sent to that country by the United States to engage in hospital and general relief work.

Auto Truck Landed in Yard.

A light Ford delivery truck of Lewis Fetzer, of Runville, was considerably damaged on Sunday afternoon when it was struck by a large touring car driven by Thomas Hoy, of Hublersburg. The truck was being driven along the state highway through Zion when Mr. Hoy drove onto the highway from a side street, striking the side of the truck with such force that the latter was hurled from the road and was finally brought to a stop in a front yard, where it was observed by many curious folks. Fortunately, nobody was seriously injured. The touring car was not damaged much. The truck was gotten back to the road and brought to the Beatty garage in Bellefonte for repairs.

New Durant Car Damaged.

The new Durant sport car of Chester Bonsell, of Tyrone, was damaged on Sunday afternoon along the highway near Pine Grove Mills. A car from Altoona attempted to pass the Durant, it is said, when another car was passing enroute to State College and crowded, so that the Altoona motorist drove his car against the Durant. Mr. Bonsell, to escape with as little damage as possible, headed his car straight for a fence and went through it, stopping in a field. There were many motorists on the road and in a short time a crowd had gathered, men assisting in getting the Durant back to the highway. The car from Altoona was slightly damaged. Both drivers were able to proceed on their own power.

Two Cars Damaged.

The Ford coupe of Philip Shuey, of State College, and a Chevrolet car from Clearfield, were considerably damaged on Saturday night in a collision at the abandoned railroad crossing along the state road at the McCoy's works. None of the occupants was seriously injured. The cars were driven to close to the centre of the road, it seems, when the drivers attempted to pass and the front wheels caught. The cars were both put out of commission and were towed to a local garage for repairs.

MUST PROTECT YOUNG FOLKS OF OUR COUNTY

Judge Quigley Again Emphasizes Where He Stands.

SPECIAL COURT NEWS

That the boys and girls, the children of Centre County, must be protected and guided aright—the slogan that Judge Henry C. Quigley has time and again stressed—was emphasized this week again. In a special session of court on Monday he sentenced H. Garfinkle of Philipsburg, to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and serve one year in the county jail.

Garfinkle is an old offender in Centre County and has served time. He was taken into custody last week charged with selling liquor to a number of boys. A half dozen youths, whose names are withheld, gave evidence that they had been at the Garfinkle house and obtained intoxicating beverage. Neighbors had noticed the lads come from the place in an intoxicated condition and reported to the authorities, who found moonshine in Garfinkle's place, it is alleged.

Another information made against Garfinkle was that he had paid $25 to Officer Simler, of Philipsburg, to have the charge against him changed to drunkenness. This $25 was turned over to Burgess Todd, Garfinkle at first hedging, but finally admitting he had attempted to bribe the officer, when the Philipsburg justice placed him under $1,000 bail for court and he was later brought to Bellefonte, being placed in jail last Thursday.

It is said this man had formerly purchased metals from boys when he knew the lads had stolen the metal and he served time for this offense.

Another instance where it is alleged a mother, Mrs. Annie Sokolosky, had been attempting to cheat her children from sharing in her property by signing it over to one, Demetery Safronov, was cleared last week—both the woman and her accomplice being held in jail on several charges until the man again transferred the property to where it belonged. Both the man and woman have been residents in the bituminous coal mining sections of the county and the woman is a widow. She has been in court a number of times recently until she is gaining considerable notoriety. It seems she does not get along well with her children some of whom are holding good positions and resent the actions of their mother, and this has led to complications. In view of the fact that the deed was transferred, Safronov and Mrs. Sokolosky were both released from jail one day last week upon payment of costs, their sentences being paroled pending good behaviour.

Tony Luse, of Philipsburg, who entered a plea of guilty to driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was given a sentence of 3 months in jail Luse had been in court before on a similar charge and his failure to respect leniency resulted in a jail sentence this time.

Emory Howe, also of Philipsburg, was in court on a similar charge. He showed he was not a "drinking man," but had been induced by friends to drink and became intoxicated. As it was his first offense, sentence was suspended.

Auto Tour to Dairy Show.

Plans for an auto tour of dairy farmers and others connected with the big dairy industry in this county to the National Dairy Exposition on the State Fair Grounds at Syracuse, N. Y. October 5—13, are being worked out by County Agents. If everybody who intends to visit the exposition will send in their names to the office, Mr. Robinson said he would be able to complete arrangements and announce details of the tour in plenty of time before it opens.

Ku Klux Klan Burns Crosses.

Burning of the crosses of the Ku Klux Klan seems to be frequent in Centre County. Another cross was burned on Halfmoon hill on Saturday evening. Several were reported as being burned on as many hills in the vicinity of Milesburg. It seems impossible to get any definite information as to why the crosses are being burned, excepting the report that it means the closing of a Klan meeting.

Hand Cut in Lathe Machine.

Mahlon Smith, well known machinist at Snow Shoe Intersection, met with a very painful misfortune on Saturday afternoon which leaves him crippled, the third finger on his left hand having been torn away when his hand was caught in a lathe machine he was operating.

FOUR COLLEGE STUDENTS HURT WHEN AUTO UPSET

Car Struck Pole When Driver Passed Another Auto.

WILL LIKELY RECOVER

Four of the students here to attend the Pennsylvania State College this term met with a mishap on Saturday evening when the driver lost control of a touring car in which they were riding along the state highway near Dale Summit. The young men are Frederick Artois, Theodore Cunningham, Elias Hawkins and Raymond Acheson. Artois was the most seriously injured, but it is thought he will recover.

The students were on a pleasure ride. They are from other parts of the state and were getting glimpses of Centre County life. In passing another car, the driver got into the ditch. It seems he was going too fast and this caused him to lose control, the touring car crashing into a telephone pole and then upsetting.

Passing motorists rendered first aid and the students were brought to the Bellefonte hospital. Artois had serious head and chest injuries. Cunningham was only slightly cut about the head and was discharged on Monday. Hawkins had a very painful fracture of the left leg above the knee, but it seems to be responding to treatment and no complications are anticipated. Acheson had minor head injuries.

The car was considerably wrecked and was towed to a State College garage for repairs.

ANOTHER BANK APPEAL

Petitioners Ask Review of Rulings by Lower U. S. Courts.

Counsel for Geo. R. Meek, Mrs. Florence Dale and Andrew Breese late Tuesday afternoon served notice of the filing of a petition with the United States Supreme Court, which if granted will result in indefinite delay in adjusting the affairs of the defunct Centre County Bank.

The petition asks permission to file an appeal with the United States Supreme Court from the findings of the federal district and circuit courts, which were adverse to the petitioners. If the highest court refuses the request the matter will automatically revert to the federal district court for action on the petition to have John M. Shugert, and others, also the Centre County Bank, declared bankrupts, and for the appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy to proceed to dispose of the matter.

B. H. S. Football.

Bellefonte High School football, under the coaching of Harris Nicely, a graduate of Gettysburg in the class of '21 and a 4-year varsity man, has every prospect of becoming the best the High School has ever produced. Oct. 6, Curwensville, at home; 13, Kylertown, at home; 19, Mt. Union, at home; 27, Milton, away. Nov. 3, Tyrone, away; 9, Lewistown, at home; 17, Philipsburg, at home. It has not been settled yet where the games with State College H. S. and B. H. S. will be played on Thanksgiving Day.

Funkhouser—Allman.

W. L. Funkhouser, of Sidney, Ohio, and Miss Belle Allman, daughter of Mrs. Nettie E. Allman, of State College, were united in marriage on Saturday morning at the bride's home. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Harkins, the bride's pastor. The bride was formerly a teacher in the schools at Beaver while the groom is a graduate of Penn State, class of '19, and for the past three years had been teaching agriculture in the Canton Christian College, Canton, China. They will reside in Sidney, Ohio.

Eberhart—Hoy.

Harry Eberhart, a well-known carpenter, and Miss Catherine Hoy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoy, of Bellefonte, were united in marriage on Saturday by the bride's uncle, Rev. George Ely, of Turbotville, Pa. They have been spending their honeymoon at Eagles Mere. They will reside in the Eberhart home on Penn St.

Veteran's Wife Ill.

Rebecca C., wife of Capt. W.H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, widely known veteran of the Civil war who has been in feeble health for several months from complications, became so ill the past week that members of the family were called to her bedside, being alarmed at her condition. The many friends of the family hope that Mrs. Fry may speedily recover.

RED CROSS CONTRIBUTIONS

Bellefonte Folks Giving Freely to Aid Stricken Japan.

Bellefonte folks are giving freely to aid stricken Japan and our local goal of $1,500 will very likely be met in a short time. At the meeting held in the Court House on Tuesday evening, Rev. Maynard presided. Opening prayer was made by Rev. Schmidt. Rev. Ard and Col. J. L. Spangler made the appeal and the response was generous. Those desiring to make contributions will send same to Chas. M. McCurdy, treasurer, at the First National Bank.

YOUNG MAN IN JAIL

Admitted Taking Wedding Ring, Watch and Check.

Charged with breaking and entering, larceny and forgery, for ransacking the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Corman, near Zion, on the afternoon of August 13th, Lloyd B. Fry, of near Bellefonte, at first denied his guilt, but finally admitted it when confronted with witnesses and damaging testimony at a hearing at the office of Justice Keichline on Tuesday evening.

Fry had the watch and ring at his home and returned them to Mrs. Corman, who had just been married last March. The check which was cashed at the Schaeffer hardware store was made good by Fry giving an order on the American Lime & Stone Co. for $43.13 to be taken from his pay check. Fry was then put back in jail. It is understood he will plead guilty at a special session of court.

Injured by Auto.

Earl Shillings, oldest son of Maurice Shillings, of Blanchard, was painfully injured but no bones were broken, when he was struck by an automobile during the congested traffic in Blanchard on account of the festival on Saturday evening. Shillings is about 17 years old and was crossing a street to reach his car when the other motorist drove into him.

Ford Car Wrecked.

A Ford car, driven into the milk truck of Epley Gentzel, near the Western Maryland milk station, was wrecked last Thursday. The big truck was not damaged and nobody was injured.

Records of Thousands of Personal Injury Awards Show Wide Discrepancies.

New York.—Records of thousands of personal injury awards made by the national industrial conference board indicate wide discrepancies in the treatment of workmen's compensation cases in the various states.

"Identical injuries are compensable in widely varying amounts in various states, and there is a similar inequality in the courts' interpretation of identical sections of the various laws," according to a summary of the report made public recently. "What is needed most in the administration of the workmen's compensation laws, in the opinion of the board's experts, is greater consideration of the opinion of medical men in the administration of the laws and more uniform opinions among those concerned with their administration.

"In several states legislatures have failed to appropriate sufficient funds to permit any extended analysis of the records accumulated in the law's administration. For this reason most of the improvements and amendments have been brought about by legislative intent rather than past experience.

Penalties Also Vary.

"The report shows that employers, for failure to report accidents to their men, may be fined various amounts ranging from $10 in California, Delaware and Illinois, to $2,500 in West Virginia, or a year's hard labor in Alabama.

"The term 'medical service' receives widely different interpretations in various states. Ohio and Connecticut have freed employers from liability when injured workmen took their troubles to quacks and 'doctors of medical electricity.'

"Similarly, the California state commission refuses to reimburse a worker who consulted a Chinese herb doctor. Iowa and Connecticut do not regard osteopaths as qualified to act in compensation cases, while California permits them. In Wisconsin, Christian Science treatment may be resorted to by an injured worker with his employer's consent. There a death from a bruised shinbone infection, which was treated by prayer, was held compensable. However, a Boston elevated railroad employee, who presented a $14 bill for services by a Christian Science practitioner, lost his claim.

Differ on Surgical Operations.

"States differ in the law's rulings on various surgical operations. For instance, the hand extends to the elbow in the legal opinion of Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Kansas, Nebraska, New York and other states, while it extends only to the wrist in Colorado, Ohio and Montana. The human foot in Colorado extends only to the knee. New York takes a middle ground, merely qualifying it as some place 'between the knee and the ankle.'

"Various state courts and commissions have answered in various ways the question, 'What is the human body worth?' For example, a thumb is worth $225 in Wyoming, $600 in Oregon and in New York and Alabama the legal compensation for sixty weeks. Wyoming holds a human hand worth $1,000, while its value rises to $1,500 in Washington, $1,900 in Oregon and 244 weeks' compensation in New York. Similar variations in legal value occur with reference to the loss of an eye, a toe, a foot and fingers.

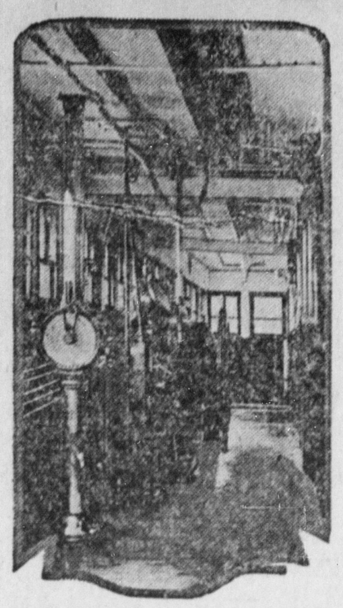
$2,500 for Loss of Nose.

"New York holds that when a worker is injured so that only his good looks are impaired, he may collect from his employer, owing to the humiliation entailed. In New York and Michigan compensation was awarded when horses bit ears off workers, but in New York the award was based on the common law.

A New York workman, whose nose was bitten off by a horse, received $2,500 from the compensation board. Deafness has been valued at $3,000 in Oklahoma and deafness in one ear at $1,500. In Washington loss of hearing is only compensable at $1,900 and one ear's deafness at $500.

"One of the most important phases of the report is that which shows the widely varying amounts expended for medical treatment under the awards of various states. For instance, Wyoming in one year allowed only 3.6 per cent of the total awards for medical expenses, while the percentage in Connecticut for two years was 38.2, totaling $1,663,107.08, and in Massachusetts, where industrialism has reached one of the highest points of development, the percentage was 20.8, with medical expenses of $1,602,057.74."

AUTOMATIC HELMSMAN



With no one at the wheel, the steamship Harry Luckenback entered the Boston harbor after a 12,000-mile trip to the Pacific coast and return. The vessel, commanded by Capt. Ernest Greene, made the entire voyage under control of the mechanical pilot which was nicknamed "Metal Mike." This ingenious device keeps the ship headed straight ahead; the device is somewhat of a gyroscope and electric automatic compass. The photograph shows "Metal Mike" affixed at the helm.

Big U. S. Bomber Passes All Tests

Dayton, O.—Surpassing even the dreams of its designer and other air service officials, the Barling bomber, world's largest airplane, recently completed its maiden flight at Wilbur Wright field.

The ease with which this dreadnaught of the air, built for U. S. army service, was maneuvered both on the ground and in flight and the slow take-off and landing speeds was the chief feature of the performance, witnessed by fewer than a thousand visitors, and characterized as the most promising maiden flight ever undertaken by any air craft. The plane was in the air 28 minutes.

Only one minor detail was found to be in other than perfect order during the flight. This was the connecting rod between the upper and lower elevator planes on the tail, which vibrated considerably, according to members of the crew.

Inventor Nervous at Start.

The vibration was not sufficient to mar the success of this greatest of flights since the Wright brothers of Dayton made their memorable voyage through the air at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in December, 1903.

As the hopes of the Wright brothers were founded on that test of twenty years ago, so were the hopes of Walter Barling, the Englishman who designed this ship, centered in this flight.

Before the bomber took the air, Barling expressed his confidence in his handiwork, but his hands were shaking and his nervousness otherwise was apparent as he climbed through the small trap door into the fuselage of the ship, following Lieut. Harold R. Harris, pilot, Lieut. Muir Fairchild, assistant pilot, and Engineer Douglas Culver.

Lieutenant Harris Pilot of Craft.

After the four men entered the ship, Harris took his place in the pilot's seat in the nose of the fuselage. Fairchild was at his side, in an auxiliary pilot's seat. Barling was standing on the "fighting platform" with the upper half of his short body above the fuselage, and Culver was at the instrument board.

Under its own power, the giant craft majestically swung around for a quarter turn and moved off to the southwest to get in position. Arrived at this position, the ship remained for a time, with motors idling.

Suddenly came a deafening roar as the six motors were speeded up, preparatory to the take-off. An instant later the ship moved across the field, and in nine seconds and after a run of 120 yards, as Lieutenant Harris "gave it the gun," the ship was off, leaving the ground at a speed of about fifty miles an hour. It gained altitude steadily.

Resembles Wright Ship.

Similar in some respects to the historic flight of the Wright brothers almost twenty years ago, this giant craft appeared strangely similar to the first Wright ship when it was viewed from the rear in the air.

The tail of the Barling has a wing spread greater than that of the DH-4, standard training ship of the army air service, and this large tail, especially when the ship was far away, appeared quite similar to the box kite tail of the first Wright airship. The propellers on the engines in the wings also recalled that the two propellers on the first successful heavier-than-air machine were located in the wings.

As the Barling bomber circled the field expressions of awe were heard on every side. This dreadnaught of the air traveled about twenty-five miles in its short flight.

The highest altitude gained was 2,500 feet, although pilots expressed the belief that a much greater altitude could have been obtained if desired.

Has Wing Spread of 120 Feet.

And then came the time for the landing. With the sunset as a background, this greatest of all airplanes glided to earth, not wavering from the course set. Its landing speed was about sixty miles an hour, whereas the craft attained a maximum speed of 93 miles an hour while in flight.

The landing was perfect. The ship seemed to be suspended on some giant cable and gently lowered to the earth.

The huge plane has a wing spread of 120 feet and weighs 40,000 pounds. Its fuel tanks have a capacity of 2,120 gallons. It carries seven machine guns and bombs totaling 12,000 pounds in weight.

Laughs Himself to Death Over Movie

Petersburg, Ind.—John Chamberlain, fifty-five years old, was sitting in the Lyric theater here watching a motion picture. Charles Preston, sitting next to Chamberlain, saw him laugh and then topple over. When ushers succeeded in getting Chamberlain to the door for air in the hope of reviving him, he was dead. Coroner Stams' verdict was that apoplexy, due to mirth, was the cause of his death.

HIS FATHER

By JANE GORDON

PRISCILLA DAWN looked coldly at her father's guests. She was a strangely particular young person, herself perfect in poise and manner. Perfect, too, her admirers said, in face and feature.

Jim Langham, when he met Priscilla Dawn, thought with a quick indrawn breath of pleased surprise, that here was his dream woman personified.

Jim, like Priscilla, demanded a certain perfection, but Jim might not be so consistent in his demand. For while Miss Dawn was favored in social position and fortune, Jim had come to the great city to make his way.

That the beautiful young woman's father had been so kind as to include an office employee among his guests was in Jim's favor.

Douglas Dawn honestly liked his assistant office manager.

Priscilla, the pride and delight of his old age, was nevertheless to her father a problem. For as his years advanced his anxious desire was to see the child of his late marriage cared for and protected in a home of her own.

Robert Wentworth was his favorite because of the name of prominence he bore. John Stern was notably successful in his profession.

At the conclusion of the dinner party the young woman arose, her calm face expressive of boredom. She forced a smile—the meaningless smile, the prejudiced father thought, learned at the school on the Hudson.

"I will leave you," Priscilla told the regretful young men, "to the enjoyment of your cigars."

Jim Langham's dark eyes followed her eagerly. She was always nice to Jim. Courtesy, he determinedly reminded himself, to a humble employee. Yet there were glorified moments when Jim, working tirelessly and dreaming great dreams of ambition, allowed happier thoughts to sway. He found her later, walking in the garden at Robert Wentworth's side. Priscilla beckoned.

"Mr. Wentworth has been bored long enough by my society," she smilingly remarked. "Will you relieve him, Mr. Langham?"

Thus frankly was the disappointed Mr. Wentworth dismissed.

"You appear to be able to entertain Priscilla, Jim," Mr. Dawn said. "Glad you can do that. What the girl is looking for in her friends—and fails to find—is most perplexing. Stern seemed to find a sort of favor until something disappointed her. Yes, I'm glad you can entertain her, at least."

"At least!" echoed Jim. To relieve an hour of boredom for the lovely Priscilla, was all that he, in his humble position, dare hope. And so he walked in the gardens at her side. And every moment, Jim, his only wealth his ambition, fell deeper and deeper in the yearning of the love which possessed him.

Through the gate opening in the hedge came a bent old figure. Jim, with a breathless stare of surprise, recognized as the old man came closer, the kindly trusting smile of greeting.

"Jim!" called his father happily—"Jim!"

Jim glanced at her hastily, then on to the wrinkled pleased face before him, then the young man's hand went out heartily.

"Father," said Jim, "how did you get here?"

"Drove in with the Wilkins folks this morning," old Jamie Langham replied. "Invited me and seemed I couldn't wait a minute after I got here to see you. We're going back tonight. Over at your boarding place they told me you'd be here."

Jim's father turned genially toward Jim's hostess. "You're Mr. Dawn's daughter, of course, and I can't tell you how glad it makes me, back there in the country, to think that some one is kind to my boy—giving him a bit of real home life now and then." Old Jamie's smile wrinkled. "And the comfort of your garden. I try to keep up Jim's mother's garden as he left it—bachelor buttons and a rambler rose. I'd like to thank your father, too, my dear, before I go, for the great help he's been to my son."

The words were spoken with his father's simple dignity, but James Langham with his knowledge of convention, gasped at the kindly "My dear." Priscilla Dawn, the courted of fortune-favored associates — what would she think of this—yes, shabby old man, and his "my dear?"

Jim's troubled eyes sought her's for understanding. And in Priscilla's eyes shone that remembered soft blue fire. Impulsively her hand reached toward old Jamie's knarled one. "Come in and meet my father," she invited, "and later I will show you bachelor buttons like those of your garden—and a rambler rose. I am glad to know James Langham's father—it makes me realize that I have not been wrong in my reading of him."

Jim walked behind the two—the woman who was indeed his woman of dreams leading the way, her hand touching the faded coat of his father tenderly.

This then, was what she had sought in the lives of her friends—failing to find sincerity and simple kindliness, unafraid.

The Drama of the Sea.

Twenty-two days in an open boat on the ocean affords an experience not often equaled in the records of the sea. Perhaps an exposure of such length has not been recorded since 1884, when three members of the crew of the yacht Mignonette endured a memorable and tragic journey in an open boat for 24 days. The story of the Trevessa's crew, when set out in full—in which we hope may be included that of the boat still missing—will add one more to those true thrilling stories of the sea with which our annals are full. Defoe knew well that for the telling of a tale of the sea narratives of fact gave the best material. Captain Marryat could not surpass or equal Hakluyt, and Stevenson envied the experience which enabled Herman Melville to deal in real events.

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perrysburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perrysburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Left at Altar as Bride Flees in Car

Springfield, Tenn.—It's not always the man who does the deserting at the altar. An eighteen-year-old girl and her lover were married in a church here. Immediately after the ceremony which made them man and wife, the girl went outside the church, climbed into a taxicab, and disappeared. The stunned bridegroom found that his wife had returned to her home—without a word for him.

ROOSTER TRIES TO KILL 18-MONTHS-OLD BABY

Frederick, Md.—Attacked by a game rooster when she picked up a chicken while toddling around in the yard, Mary Ellen Hubbard, eighteen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hubbard, near Creagerstown, is at the City hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of a two-inch spur from the skull at the "suture line."

The mother had found the infant lying in the yard with chickens swarming around her. An X-ray examination revealed the spur of the rooster, which had broken off in the skull.

Dr. E. P. Thomas, the operating surgeon, said the spur had penetrated the brain substance and had entered through what is known as the "soft part of the skull." The right side of the head and face of the child is badly lacerated, indicating that the enraged rooster had continued his attacks after the child had become unconscious. The mother heard no screams, and it is thought the child lay in the yard for some time before being found.

When the child recovered consciousness physicians said she probably would recover.

New York Policeman Gets Joker's Ten Dollar Bill

New York.—Patrolman Davis of traffic squad A got the laugh out of a $10 joke and also the $10.

Max Greenberg, twenty-five years old, 127 Orchard street, had nothing to do, at Orchard and Rivington streets, so he dropped a folded $10 bill on the sidewalk to see what would happen.

Benjamin Wasserman, twenty-two years old, 509 Woodward avenue, Brooklyn, came along and picked it up. Greenberg stopped him, explained that the laugh was on Wasserman and asked for the $10 back. There was an argument. Wasserman couldn't see the joke. They clinched.

"It was a joke. I take back that assault charge," Wasserman said.

"Stout fellow," said Greenberg, or words to that effect.

"What happens to the $10?" asked Assistant District Attorney Henry Alexander.

"Give it to the patrolman," said the magistrate.

River Moved to Recover Body of Drowned Youth

Cisco, Cal.—A river's course has been changed so that a mother might see once more the body of her son. A few days ago the body, that of twelve-year-old Clyde Patnoe, was buried here.

Clyde fell into the Yuba river and was swept over the falls. His body never came up, but engineers of the Pacific Gas and Electric corporation offered to get it. The company authorized their task and all work of harnessing the falls, on which the men had been engaged, was stopped.

It cost them days and nights of ceaseless toil and cost the company $20,000 before, with dynamite and steam shovel, the thousands of tons of earth could be removed and the Yuba's course diverted. Then, wedged between jagged rocks at the foot of the falls, the engineers found the boy's crushed body.

Refuses to Aid Children.

Stillwater, Minn.—Because a canoeist refused to give them aid, Emil Bretzell, eleven years old, and his eight-year-old sister, Helen, were drowned in the river here. A man in the canoe shouted that his craft would upset if he tried to save the children, and paddled out of sight. His name is not known.

Stuck in Fence.

Philadelphia.—Dennis O'Connell, ten years old, stuck his head through a picket fence here and was unable to get free. Policemen and the boy's playmates were unable to free him, so an expert from the fire department was called and cut out one of the iron bars.

New York.—Yrigoyen, one of the most famous race horses in Argentina, is dead. He was the victim of a gland operation. The racer did not work well this season, so his owners ordered a gland transferred from a younger animal. The operation proved fatal.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LEGION MAN OF MANY TASKS

Howard S. Fisk, Historian of District of Columbia, Has Had Many Interesting Experiences.

Howard S. Fisk, now historian of the American Legion in the District of Columbia, was considered during the war as one of the most resourceful of executives on account of his expert knowledge concerning automobile transportation.

Fisk was born in New York City and, on removal to Washington, became a newsboy. From this lowly station he arose through various departments of a city daily until he became automobile editor of the newspaper. As a result of his work in this connection he became familiar with all phases of automobile transportation, and has edited several books on this subject.

He was identified with the District of Columbia Naval Militia during the Spanish-American war, and was pay clerk on board the U. S. S. Fern, the first ship to enter Havana harbor after the Maine was blown up. In 1917 he volunteered his services to the navy and during the war was stationed in Washington as a staff member of Admiral McCowen's staff. When the outbreak of influenza swept the city in 1918, Fisk was detached from active duty and was placed in charge of a transport corps, which conveyed patients, physicians and nurses throughout the city during the epidemic. The District of Columbia was under direction of Surgeon General Rupert C. Blue, who sought Fisk's assignment to this particular duty. During the period when the ravages of the disease were most violent, Fisk worked 19 hours daily for nearly three weeks. He was cited for this service, and when discharged from the navy was a lieutenant commander.

When post 1 of the American Legion was organizing, temporarily to be known as Gen. John J. Pershing post, Fisk was one of the petitioners for the organization. He was named first department adjutant, elected vice commander and commander of George Washington post, No. 1, and represented the national organization at a reception for Marshal Foch at the White House, when he formally pinned a badge of the American Legion on the breast of the French leader. He is said to be the only Legionnaire in the District who has been selected as delegate or alternate to every national convention of the Legion.

IN HONOR OF AMERICAN DEAD

Battle Monuments Commission Named by President Harding to Supervise Erection.

The American battle monuments commission, authorized by the Sixty-seventh congress, and some time ago named by President Harding to supervise the erection of all monuments overseas erected in honor of the American troops, will decide on definite plans for these monuments, so that any memorials to companies, regiments, divisions or units will be in keeping with the plans of the commission.

Col. Thomas W. Miller, who represents the American Legion on this commission as named by President Harding, served in the Twenty-ninth and Seventy-ninth divisions, as division ordnance officer of the latter organization. Colonel Miller is national executive committeeman of the Legion from the department of Delaware and has taken an active part in Legion affairs.

Col. D. John Markey of Frederick, Md., who in 1922 was chairman of the American Legion's national committee on military affairs, is another active Legionnaire named on the commission.

Other members of the commission are Gen. John J. Pershing, Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Congressman John Phillip Hill of Maryland, Capt. Robert G. Woodside of Pennsylvania, Maj. X. H. Price, as secretary, all of whom are overseas veterans. Mrs. Fred W. Bentley of Illinois is the other member of the commission, and represents "gold star" mothers.

TOAST TO WORLD'S LAST WAR

Bottle of Ancient Wine to Be Passed On, to Be Drunk When Strife Ends.

When the world fights its last war, some veteran of an American war may drink a bottle of wine preserved for years for the coming of such an event.

The wine recently occupied the place of honor on the banquet table of the Last Man club, formed from the survivors of Company B., First Minnesota Volunteers, a Civil war organization. The club was formed thirty years ago, with 34 members. There was an understanding that a reunion should be held each year. The wine was presented to the club on its organization, and it was agreed that the last survivor should attend the banquet, and drink the rare old vintage to the vacant chairs of his departed comrades.

This year only three were present at the meeting, which was held in Stillwater, Minn., on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run. Peter Hall, president of the club, declared during the meeting that the requirements of the constitution would make the last occasion too sorrowful, and suggested another way to mark the passing of the organization. He offered a plan that the last two survivors should drink a toast, seal the remainder of the wine in the bottle, and pass it on to the American Legion in Stillwater, with similar stipulation as to its retention, or until all nations join to make war impossible. Thus, the Stillwater Legion men are expected to become possessors of the wine, perhaps to be passed on to some other veterans' organization founded from another American war.

Peter Hall, Atwater, Minn.; John Goff, a guest at the Minneapolis Soldiers' home; and Charles Lockwood, Chamberlain, S. D., were the guests at this year's meeting. One other survivor, Emil Graff, of St. Cloud, Fla., was kept from the meeting because of physical infirmities.

The unique event attracted national attention, and the proposal to pass on the rare wine to the American Legion, not to be touched until war has become impossible, has resulted in considerable speculation as to whether the World war veterans would drink the final toast.

ISSUES 'HOME LOAN' WARNING

Unscrupulous dealers in real estate are said to have taken advantage of former service men in the state of Oregon, which by law has provided for a "home loan" feature of compensation for veterans. Officials of the American Legion, to whom have been reported a number of instances in which the veteran has faced loss of his investment, have issued a communication to members of that organization, warning them against assuming too heavy a financial burden under the plan.

The law, as passed by the state legislature, was intended by its sponsors to finance the purchase of homes or farms for veterans, when they have sufficient income to carry the payments.

According to the Legion leaders, certain real estate men are showing a tendency to depreciate or discount the loan of the veteran, or to demand additional cash down. Some firms have claimed that the plan outlined by the law was not feasible to handle, and that the business was conducted at a loss.

There have been 400 bonus loans in Oregon to date, according to the records of the state officials. Of this number, only seven veterans face foreclosure on property, a refutation of the statement that realty dealers had found the plan unsuccessful.

The principal difficulty has been, Legion investigators say, to keep the veterans from paying too much for homes or farms. Payments on property selling at $5,000 or more are heavy, and veterans are urged to consider the fact that in case they have put a second mortgage on their place to a realty dealer, they must pay the state a certain sum in addition to that due the real estate man.

SUPPORT OF LEGION ASSURED

Religious and Fraternal Organizations Pledge Aid to Work of World War Men.

Unanimous support by numerous religious and fraternal organizations of the American Legion was pledged at a recent meeting of these groups held in Washington. A resolution adopted at the gathering quoted the preamble to the Legion's constitution, and then continued:

"We heartily approve this statement and the American Legion as a great organization composed of men and women who served their country in the World war, earnestly hoping that they will continue to serve their country in time of peace with the same patriotic devotion that animated them in the days when they wore the uniform. We pledge them our cordial support, wishing them all success and every blessing as they pursue these high ideals."

Organizations joining in the tribute were the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Young Men's Christian association, American Red Cross and National Catholic Welfare Council.

TOO MUCH MONEY WRECKS ROMANCE

SUES BOY FOR DIVORCE

Wichita, Kan.—"Once upon a time," as the story-tellers say, a boy and a girl loved each other and were happy. They lived on scrawny, rock-pitted farms that adjoined each other. From this poor soil the boy's parents and the girl's parents eked out a meager existence.

Ofttimes as the moon bathed the countryside in silver the boy and the girl talked of the future. He told of how some day they would have a modest, but comfortable, little house "in town" with maybe a car to ride in.

Then one day great wealth came to the girl. The restless bit of the oil driller found streams of "liquid gold" on the girl's farm. Over night she was wealthy. Fortune hunters came to woo the girl, silk-tongued promoters unfolded Utopian plans. But the girl heard them not. She married the boy and their dreams came true. But—

The other day the girl sued the boy for a divorce.

"Too much money," those who had known them for years commented.

Her Romance Is Ended.

The romance of Exie Fife, wealthy Indian girl of Oklahoma has ended. Across the district court record of McIntosh county is written the last act in the love story of Exie Fife and her girlhood suitor, Berlin Jackson.

In a divorce petition, Exie contends her husband has repeatedly accused her of infidelity and of being intimate with another man, and she further alleges that he never has supported her. Jackson, in his answer, denies he made such accusations and that he had not failed to support her.

While no persons are named in Exie's suit, or her husband's answer, Eufaula smiles cynically and refers to "the other case."

"The other case" is a divorce petition filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Carr against Ollie Carr. The petition, filed shortly before Exie's, charges Carr with cruelty and non-support.

Happiness Engulfed in Oil.

Exie Fife, a full-blooded Creek Indian, first came into prominence a few years ago when oil was discovered on her 160-acre farm in Creek county. There are now a dozen big producing wells on her land, from which she receives a royalty of one-eighth of all the oil produced. The Indian office at Muskogee allows her $750 a month for the expense of her home.

Instead of the modest little home of which they dreamed, the Jackson bungalow is considered the best in that section of Oklahoma. Instead of one car, they have three; and instead of years of happiness and contentment they found discord and discontent.

The golden stream which had brought them wealth and position swept away the happiness which was theirs.

"Too much money."

Stepmother Makes Girl Live in Pigsty Ten Years

El Paso, Tex.—Reared in a pigsty for ten years through the alleged malice of a stepmother, a thirteen-year-old girl was found asleep in the pen, located near her home here by detectives.

The child, scarcely the size of a three-year old, could answer only simple questions.

She said that she had lived in the little pen as far back as she can remember, and that her food was always given to her through the bars.

Neighbors told the officers that her food consisted principally of scraps. Some of them have been taking milk to her pen.

The stepmother said the child was put in the pen only to play. The county probation officer took charge of the child.

HOW TO SLEEP 3-IN-A-BED

YES, it CAN be done—but not like this.

The trouble is, most people go to bed with "something" on the mind—or ON THE STOMACH!

The answer is, no matter what the day has brought forth to upset your mind and digestive organs, take Beecham's Pills when you retire.

Though in no sense a "sleeping potion," this 80-years-famous household medicine so harmonizes the system that you can sleep in quiet and perfect rest, even in two feet of bed space.

Beecham's Pills are as efficient and harmless for children as for adults—sweetening the stomach, invigorating digestion and stirring liver and bowels to natural activity.

BIG TELESCOPE FOR RUSSIA

Instrument Manufactured in British Factory Weighs Nine Tons and Is 45 Feet Long.

In view of the present condition of Russia, it is rather surprising to find that the Soviet government has ordered a telescope which is one of the largest in the world. This telescope has just been completed in a British factory, and will shortly be transported to an observatory on the shores of the Black sea. It weighs about nine tons, and the inside length of the tube is 45 feet. Heavy as the telescope is, it is so admirably fitted that it can be moved by electrical means as easily as if it were a small portable apparatus. The push-button system of control has been adopted, so that all the operator has to do to direct the telescope to any part of the heavens is to press certain buttons. A second telescope, almost as large as this, is being made at the same British factory for another observatory in Russia. So delicate is the work on these giant instruments that about three years are occupied in designing and constructing them.

COAL STRIKE SETTLED

Anthracite Operators and Miners Adjust Differences.

Settlement of the strike in the anthracite coal region was announced last Friday night at Harrisburg, where operators and miners union representatives had been in conference with Governor Pinchot for several days It is calculated that the miners will resume operations on Septhmber 17th.

As usually is the case in such matters, the public will have to pay the bill. Coal will be boosted in price to the consumer to cover a ten percent. increase in wages to the miners. The terms of settlement also provide an eight hour day for them. A demand by the miners union that the operators accept what is known as the check off system was not pressed in the final adjustment. By the check-off system in the soft coal region the operators deduct miners union dues from the pay of the men and hand it over to the union. The hard coal operators held out against this and eventually won their point. They consented, however, to continue the plan already in force at the anthracite mines of permitting union agents to be present on pay days and collect union dues.

Governor Pinchot in proposing the terms of settlement stated that the ten percent. increase in wages to the miners should not necessitate an advance in the cost of mining and shipping coal in excess of sixty cents per ton. He voiced the belief that ten cents of this increase could be absorbed in shipping, and that the remaining fifty cents could be taken care of in other ways. Just how this is to be done was not suggested, and the operators made it quite plain that it couldn't or wouldn't be done and that the burden would be passed along to the consumer.

Although the hard coal mines have been on a strike basis since September 1st, well informed persons state that the period of idleness need not necessarily affect the coal supply. This is because the mines have been worked continuously and at top-notch speed during the summer and an unusually large surplus was in storage when the strike order became effective. The customary summer shutdown at such mines was not observed, thereby adding greatly to the amount of coal mined and stored.

Apparently both operators and miners had no expectation that the strike would last very long. This would seem to be borne out by the fact that the operators did not remove mules from the mines when the men quit, something always done when a long strike is anticipsted.

Harvey's Greater Minstrels

A really first class colored minstrel show, adorned with every conceivable modernity in the way of dressing and coupled with a lively high class vaudeville show and a genuine musical revue—such is the varied and delightful entertainment which Harvey's Greater Minstrels will offer to the patrons of the Garman's Opera House, on Thursday evening, Sept. 20th. There is strutting, music, southern melodies, southern blues, jokes, dances and an easy-to-look at chorus of twenty coffee-colored, fawn, buckskin, jet black, and high yellow, singing and dancing fools. Harvey's minstrels is a high spirited frolic of syncopated song and dance, it is also a "plantation" and "creole" pastime, a musical comedy, and vaudeville revue, and gives a copious exhibition of the range of talents which find colored entertainers in their happiest manner. More than half of Harvey's Minstrels could cross the color line into any white man's theatre and make good on sheer novelty, snap and skill. The negro's natural gift of song and talent for the dance have ever made him, since he took the stage, an apt entertainer.

Penn State's New Chaplain.

The Rev. Dr. Frank Metzger, pastor of Bethany Congregational church at Randolph, Vt., is expected to report for duty at State College about October 1st as chaplain of the Pennsylvania State College, succeeding Rev. Robert R. Reed, who resigned the post eight years ago, since which time it remained vacant. Dr. Metzger is a close friend of President John M. Thomas and comes to Centre County with splendid recommendations.

Business Men Visit Farmers.

A trip to foster closer relations between the business men of Lock Haven and the farmers of lower Nittany valley, was made yesterday. After the trip, in which the farmers entertained the business men, all went to Lock Haven and enjoyed a banquet. H. W. Shaffer, president of the Lock Haven business men's association, and John B. McCool, county farm agent, directed the affair.

PENN STATE FOOTBALL

Expect Record Crowds at Feature Games at Home.

Preparations are being made for the handling of record breaking crowds at State College this fall on the occasions of feature football games with the Navy and Georgia Tech. The former will be played on October 20, Alumni Home-Coming Day, and the latter on November 10. These are probably the greatest football attractions ever scheduled for Central Pennsylvania. New stands that are now nearly completed will seat at least 17,000 people.

Sept. 29—Lebanon Valley, at State.
Oct. 6—North Carolina, at State.
Oct. 13—Gettysburg, at State.
Oct. 20—Navy, at State
Oct. 27—West Virginia at New York.
Nov. 3—Syracuse, at Syracuse.
Nov. 10—Georgia Tech. at State.
Nov. 17—Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.
Nov. 29—(Thanksgiving) Pittsburgh, at Pittsburgh.

The Freshman have the following schedule:

Oct. 13—Carnegie Tech. Fresh, at State.
Oct. 20—Kiski, at State.
Nov. 3—Syracuse Fresh. at State.
Nov. 10—Pitt Fresh. at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 17—West Virginia Fresh. at State.
Nov. 24—Penn Fresh. at Philadelphia.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Rev. C. F. Catherman is the champion quoit pitcher of Penn's valley ministers, gaining this honor when he defeated Rev. E. B Snyder at the recent finals, other ministers having been eliminated in preceding contests

The Millheim High School has been put in the list of first class high schools of the state by the department of education at Harrisburg, Prof. J. L. Hackenberg, of the Millheim school, receiving information to this effect one day last week.

The destruction of large quantities of raw silk in Japanese warehouses in the earthquake district recently makes a serious shortage in raw material for those mills using Japanese silk and may cause an increase in price of Japanese silk products. The Bellefonte mill, Manager Heim said, "is not affected. The Eagle firm, operating the Bellefonte mill, use China silk mostly and will likely have a good supply in their storage vaults in this country."

Chick hatcheries form the nucleus of one of Centre County's foremost enterprises. Perhaps the largest in the state is the Hockman hatchery at Mingoville, with a capacity of over half a million per season. C. D. Bartholomew, of Centre Hall, has been operating a similar hatchery and sold out to C. Nevin Hockman, who had been successful with a hatchery at Madisonburg. Hockman will operate both plants next season, enlarging the one at Centre Hall, so that he will get close to the 100,000 chick per season class. Kerlin, the famous Centre Hall chicken fancier, also does a large business in hatching and selling day-old chicks. Chicks from these various hatcheries are much in demand and are sent by parcel post safely to many points all over the United States, even to foreign lands.

Eclipse on the Sun.

An eclipse of the sun, discernible in this section, was viewed by many on Monday afternoon. Conditions for viewing the eclipse were ideal. The sky was clear and the spot began to appear at the edge of the sun a short time after three o'clock gradually covering more of the sun until about 5 o'clock when it was more visible. Many used blue glass making the spot more easily seen. For the first time in history, photos of an eclipse were taken off the coast of California at a selected place from airplanes, the closer views being preserved for study for scientific purposes.

BELLEFONTE ACADEMY OPENS

Large Enrollment and Unusually Strong Faculty.

The Bellefonte Academy opened this week with one of the largest enrollments in its history, and an unusually strong faculty. The present year, therefore, promises to be a "red letter" one for the "school upon the hill."

We often wonder how many of our good Centre Countians realize how this historic Academy has not only put Bellefonte upon the map, but has kept it there during the past 100 years. How many realize it requires a great expenditure of time, energy and money amidst the tremendous competition that prevails among the hundreds of splendid schools in the country, to secure the fine lads that come here from several of our leading states? How many realize this school is turning thousands and thousands of dollars into the business channels of this county that could go to other school towns of the country, but for the efforts of the Academy management. Bear in mind, always, too, that the Academy is a promoter of the best interests of the community, whether athletic, social, scholastic or religious.

Students in the town or county who would like to enjoy the advantages at the Academy as day students, will please consult James R. Hughes.

The faculty for this year is as follows:

James R. Hughes, A. M. Headmaster, (Princeton University). French, Greek and Oratory.

George F. Reiter, Ph., B., Sc, M, Assistant Headmaster. (Bucknell University). Physics and Chemistry.

Helen E. C. Overton, (Formerly of Minneapolis City Schools). English Grammar, History, Civics and Commercial Law.

Isabella S. Hill, Ph. B., (Wesleyan University, Columbia University) English, Rhetoric and Literature.

Morris W. Grabill, A. B., (Otterbein College, Ohio State University) Higher Mathematics.

Lawrence D. Kimball, A. B., (Bates College). French, German and Spanish.

J. L. Simmons, A. B., (Valparaiso College) Mathematics and History.

Elmer L. Reiter, Sc., B., (Bucknell University). Biology, General Science and Mathematics.

Carl G. Snavely, A. B., (Lebanon Valley College) Mathematics.

C. S. Hartman, A. B., (Lafayette College). Latin and History.

Charles S. Hughes, A. B., (Princeton University) Mathematics.

Carl G. Snavely, Director of Athletics.

ANOTHER PRICE DROP

President John N. Willys, of the Willys—Overland Company, has announced another reduction in prices of the entire Overland line, the new prices being in effect now. R. N. VanIngen, of the Bellefonte-Overland agency, confirmed the new price schedule, with reductions ranging from $30 to $65. The Overland touring car, also the roadster, is down from $525 to $495; the coupe is reduced from $795 to $750; the sedan is down from $860 to $795; the "Red Bird," which has proved so popular, is reduced from $750 to $695, and the chassis price is changed from $425 to $395.

The Overland line is now equipped with a bigger, much more powerful new motor. Mr. VanIngen, the local agent, has placed a large number of cars in and nearby Bellefonte during the present season. Each succeeding month has witnessed a new record for sales. It is the belief of Mr. VanIngen that even this record-breaking season for sales will be surpassed during the coming season.

Had to Get License.

With the season of the year when Penn State opens once more, there is the usual competition among the several transfer men soliciting for trunks to be hauled from Bellefonte to the college town and there was an unusual tinge to the situation on Friday when a new worker, George Kaminski, hauled several trunks. Immediately information was made against him and he was arraigned before Burgess Walker, where he agreed to take out license for the balance of the year and secured the half year rate, $5, settling the matter amicably.

Jack Frost laid his icy hand on vegetables in lowlands on Tuesday morning.

W. K. Goss, wife and daughter Mabel, of Tyrone, visited relatives in town the early part of the week.

Isaac Gray Burket, of Halfmoon Twp., was circulating among the voters for Centre County's nomination for treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fleming with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Collins, motored to Coopertown to spend Sunday at the homes of Wm. and Chas. Johnstonbaugh.

Mrs. Ivie Roush, of Altoona, was a visitor here and at State College the early part of the week.

Miss Mary Ward laid up her scissors and tape line, departing on Saturday morning for a 10 days visit among friends in Cleveland, O.

Thomas Wagner and his bride left here on Tuesday to establish their home in Juniata. Tom has a good job in the P. R. R. shops.

Fred Corl, in his Ford roadster, took his mother to Tyrone to visit his aunt, Mary Wright, who is very ill from complications.

The W. E. Reed mansion is ready for the plasterer. Will Young, of Boalsburg is handling the trowel.

Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams with Mr. and Mrs. Fenstamacher, of Altoona, and the M. E. district superintendent, were entertained at the M. E. parsonage over Sunday. The superintendent very ably filled the pulpit in the M. E. church here in the evening.

The Mack Fry family is feasting on fresh pork. One of his fattening hogs broke out of the field and wandered onto the road where a passing car struck it, breaking a fore leg and several staves. It was promptly butchered and the fresh pork is proving very palatable.

The ball game scheduled for last Saturday was pulled off on the field west of town between our nine and the Dudley team. The rainy weather did not deter the game and a large crowd of enthusiasts were on hand to root. The visitors ran away with the first 4 innings and for a time it looked like a skunk, but when the dust cleared just as Old Sol was sinking in the west, the umpire called 7—5 in favor of our nine, thus winning new laurels.

Will Thompson, of Hammond, Ind., is spending a 3 weeks vacation among his Centre County friends and looking as though the climate of the Hoosier State agrees with him.

Little Earl, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Corl, of Bloomsdorf, was taken to the Bellefonte hospital on Tuesday, the fourth, and operated on for appendicitis. He is reported doing nicely.

John E. McWilliams, last week purchased the Mitchell farm near town, from Miss Olive Mitchell, of Bellefonte. John has a home on Main street and as yet has not decided to grow blooded stock and bumper crops next season.

Fred and Mrs. Fry motored through Stone valley on Sunday and highly enjoyed the trip.

C. M. Dale, farmer and dairyman, transacted business at Millheim and Rebersburg on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Goheen, of Baileyville, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Bouse, of Tyrone, on a cross country motor trip to Philadelphia and New York city, to be gone for 2 weeks.

Warren Bailey, who has been ill of jaundice the past week, is convalescing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Markle, of Bellwood, were over Sunday visitors at the J. A. Fortney home on East Main street.

Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick, of Centre Hall, spent Tuesday visiting the sick among his parishioners in the valley.

Tommy Glenn and son, up-to-date merchants of State College, spent Tuesday with the former's father, Wm. H., on Main street.

Russell Shirk is now master of all he surveys. Monday he closed the deal and purchased the Dr. Dale farm east of Lemont. He expects to till the fertile fields next season.

Mrs. Geo. C. McWilliams is ill, suffering from a bilious attack.

The venerable J. C. Robb, noted hunter and trapper, now past 85 years old, is ill at the W. R. Port home at Rock Springs.

Mrs. N. E. Hess was discharged from the Bellefonte hospital last Thursday and taken to the John Hopkins hospital in Baltimore on Sunday afternoon.

Harding Memorial Stamps.

The Harding Memorial stamps are now on sale at the postoffices throughout the country and the Bellefonte office placed them on sale during the weekend. The stamps have been issued in large quantities and will likely be on sale for a period of 3 months.

Political Advert sement.

When Alexander Morrison became Overseer of the Poor of Bellefonte, the department was in debt, but by careful management it is clear of all debt and now owns its own Borough Home valued at $4000; and the Poot Tax for the year 1923 has been reduced over $2000.00. This shows what good management will do.

Vote for Alexander Morrison for Overseer of the Poor next Tuesday.

Dominic Judge Dead.

Dominic Judge, one of the well known residents of this section, died on Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock from complications. He had been in failing health for the past two years and was seriously ill for two weeks. Born in Bald Eagle on June 11, 1852, he early turned to railroad work as a life vocation and was employed on the Mountain Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad company as a conductor when the Bellefonte Central Railroad company began operating between Bellefonte and State College. Mr. Judge, the late Jerry Nolan, the late Ross Parker, and our townsman, W. H. Crissman, were original employes of the local railroad company. Mr. Judge was trainmaster for many years leaving this position about two years ago on account of failing health. The parents of the deceased came here from Ireland during the famine of 1847 and settled in upper Bald Eagle valley. There were three children in the family, Dominic being the only one born in America. His wife died thirteen years ago on September 10th. Mr. Judge wished that he might die on the anniversary of her death and came very close to it. One child, Mrs. Oscar Gray, survives. He was a member of the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Order of Railroad Conductors and of St. John's Catholic church. Funeral services will be conducted in the St. John's Catholic church by Father Downes, on Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment in the Tyrone cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Undercoffler Dead.

Mrs. Mary Alice Undercoffler, widow of William Undercoffler, and among the oldest residents of Spring Township, died at the home of her son, Joseph, in Bush Addition on last Thursday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock. Death was due to complications brought on by her advanced age and was hastened by an attack of bronchitis, which developed from a cold contracted by sitting on a stone wall to rest while walking about the yard at the Undercoffler home. The deceased was born at Roopsburg on March 20, 1836, a daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth North, descendants of a titled family of England. For thirteen years she and Mr. Undercoffler occupied the Humes' farm, near town, moving from the farm to the home on the hill nearby where Mr. Undercoffler died 22 years ago last April and where Mrs. Undercoffler continued to reside until the week of July 4th when she was persuaded to make her home with her son, being seriously ill at that time. She had but one child, Joseph, baggage master at the P.R. R. station, who survives with two grandchildren: William, at Ambridge, Pa., and Mrs. Edward Moeslein, of New York city. One grandson, Arthur, was killed in the World war. Her late surviving sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, who had resided with her for a number of years, passed away some time ago, and after her death, Mrs. Undercoffler lived alone in the home that had been hers for so many years. Funeral services were held on Monday morning and burial made in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Mary Kreamer Dead.

Mrs. Anna Mary Kreamer, a former resident of Millheim, died in Lock Haven at the home of his son-in-law, W. H. Klepper, last Thursday afternoon. Death was caused by infirmities due to her advanced age. Born in Rebersburg on July 14, 1838, the deceased was a daughter of John and Elizabeth Ruhl, and spent most of her long life in Penn's valley. Her husband died a number of years ago. She was an active member of the Lutheran church all her life. Surviving are one brother, Jonathan Ruhl, of Tylersburg; one sister, Mrs. Rose E. Blair, and four grandchildren. Funeral services were held from the Klepper home on Sunday afternoon. On Monday the remains were taken to Millheim, where further services were conducted in the Lutheran church at 10:30 o'clock. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery at Millheim.

Thomas Burns Dead.

Thomas Burns, of Julian, died Tuesday morning from complications. He was 88 years old. Surviving are his widow; one son, Thomas, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Elmer Williams, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Calvin Holt, of Julian. Deceased was a well-known veteran of the Civil war. Burial was made this Thursday afternoon at Julian.

John W. Biddle Dead.

John W. Biddle, a well-known resident of State College, died on Monday. He was about 60 years old and his wife has been dead a number of years. Surviving are one son and one daughter. Burial will be made in Gray's cemetery on Friday afternoon.

Death of Infant.

Joseph, 6 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bechdel, of near Howard, died on Saturday from cholera infantum. Funeral services were held on Monday and burial made in Schenck's cemetery.

Daniel Jackson Dead.

Daniel F. Jackson, 20, died at the home of his mother in State College on Monday from a lingering illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon and burial made at Pine Hall.

LEGAL NOTICE.

In the Court of Common Pleas of Centre County, No. 148, September Term 1923.

TO WILLIAM A. PETRIKEN, or his legal representatives or whoever may be the holder or holders of the mortgage, hereinafter mentioned.

Take notice that on August 23, 1923, EDWIN F. GARMAN, ALLAN S. GARMAN, IRA D. GARMAN, MINNIE B. MAITLAND, REBECCA G. CRUSE, WILLIAM H. GARMAN and ROBERT T. GARMAN, presented their petition averring that they are the owners of all that certain messuage, tenement and lot of ground, situate in the Borough of Bellefonte, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the West side of Spring Street, on the line of lot late of James Somerville, now Harry J. Holz, et al; thence Northwardly along said Street 112 feet 8 inches to a point on High Street; thence Westerly along High Street 166 feet 8 inches to a point; thence Southwardly along land of the estate of Mrs. D. G. Bush 77 feet 4 inches to a point; thence Westwardly along land of same 44 feet 2 inches to a point; thence Westwardly along land of same 10 feet 2 inches to a point; thence Westwardly along land of same 63 feet to a point; thence Southwardly along land of same 25 feet 2 inches; thence South 7 degrees 30 minutes East 71 feet along land of the estate of Mrs. D. G. Bush to the centre of an alley; thence Eastwardly along centre of said Alley 30 feet to a point; thence Northwardly along lands late of James Somerville, now Harry J. Holz et al, 51 feet 6 inches to a point; thence Eastwardly along lands of same 28 feet to a point; thence Northwardly 16 feet 6 inches to a point; thence Eastwardly along land of same 172 feet to the place of beginning; being part of lots Numbers 13 and 14 as described in the general plot or plan of said Borough.

That an unsatisfied mortgage upon said premises remains of record in the office of Recorder of Deeds of Centre County, given by David M. Wagner and Daniel G. Bush to William A. Petriken, dated April 8, 1854, due April 1, 1866, and recorded in said office in Mortgage Book Vol. E page 674, for $1650, and that more than the period of 21 years has elapsed since the principal of said mortgage became due and payable, and no payment has been made since May 26, 1884, of either principal or interest, and praying for satisfaction thereof.

Whereof said Court ordered that notice of said facts be served by the Sheriff of Centre County, on the said William A. Petriken or his legal representatives or whoever may be the known holder or holders of said mortgage, if to be found in said County and having known residence, and, if not, then to give public notice by advertisement requiring them to appear in said Court on Monday, Sept. 24, 1923, to answer said petition and to show cause why the proper decree should not be granted and said mortgage satisfied of record.

Wives of Villa Tell Romances

Women in Various Parts of Mexico to Claim Estate Worth Millions.

Torreon, Mexico.—Just how many wives did Francisco Villa have?

The question, for years a subject for speculation as one Mrs. Villa after another was heard of, suddenly ceased to be academic when the former bandit leader was killed on his ranch in Durango recently.

From an outlaw with no estate save the price on his head, Villa had become a large landholder, and his legal wife and children presumably can claim a large inheritance.

Several alleged wives have already emerged from obscurity, and inquiries in Chihuahua, Durango and along the Mexican border indicate that several more probably will do so. He is generally credited there with ten of them.

Separated on Nuptial Day.

A few days after the bandit chief's death a correspondent visited Mrs. Luz Corral Villa at Chihuahua City. Mrs. Luz Villa is of a type rare among Mexicans, a blue-eyed, golden-haired, magnificently built woman, with poise and personality. She is about thirty-six years old, and well educated. After her marriage she added to her education the accomplishments of painting and the piano.

She was married to "General" Villa, as she always calls him, in 1908, in the Catholic church at San Andres, Mexico, she told the correspondent. They then went to Chihuahua to be married by the court, but before the ceremony could be performed Villa was captured and taken to Mexico City. Upon his return to Chihuahua several months later they were married by the court.

Villa built a beautiful quinta for her on Tenth street in Chihuahua, of which the furnishings alone cost 60,000 pesos or more, she said, and lavished gorgeous jewelry and luxuries upon her. She claims he always spoke of her to his friends as his "only love."

In 1916, during the trouble over the shooting of Americans, Villa sent Dona Luz to the United States for safety, where she remained until 1920.

Villa and Dona Luz had no children, she says, but during most of the time she was in the United States she took care of and educated three of his children, whose mothers were unknown to her.

In 1920 she returned to Mexico, and lived with Villa at Canutillo, his immense ranch. A few days after she arrived there, she declares, Villa brought another wife, Esther Cradone, into the house.

Sent Mistress to Another Town.

Nominally, however, the large, fair Dona Luz triumphed. She told Villa she would leave him if he did not send Esther away, and he yielded. But he sent her only as far as Chihuahua.

The correspondent saw her there a few days ago, at Avenue Penitenciaria, No. 817. "Every time Villa came to Chihuahua he visited me," she declared; "and every month I received money from him."

With Esther gone, peace returned to the ranch at Canutillo; but not for long. One day a letter came addressed to Villa in a woman's hand. Dona Luz opened it. It read: "The lawyer that you sent was here to see my father, but my father is against our marriage because he believes you are already married. If you can prove the contrary, speak with my uncle, who lives in Parrel." It was signed, "Austaberta Renteria."

Dona Luz knew the girl, she says. Austaberta had once told her that Villa had tortured her father by burning his feet off. Villa never got that letter, Dona Luz admits frankly.

New Favorite Ousts Wife.

But neither her influence nor the suppression of the letter which had come into her hands, could keep Villa from acquiring the new wife on whom he had his eyes. However he managed it, he presently brought Austaberta Renteria to Canutillo. Dona Luz protested in vain; they quarreled; he told her to leave, and she left penniless, according to her story.

Villa, it is said, had a son by Austaberta, who is still living with his mother at Canutillo. She is believed to be the last wife with whom Villa lived.

Both Esther and Dona Luz say their husband was always good to them in his way, never unkind, and that he always provided well for them. They say, too, that his main thought was the education of his children.

Still another wife was found at Torreon, Coahuila. She is Paula Alamillo de Villa, young still, dark and slender, with magnificent eyes.

She married Villa in 1914, when she was only fourteen years old. Her little girl, Evangeline, is now eight years old. She told a simple and straightforward story.

Dreaded by Girl's Parents.

"When Pancho Villa took possession of Torreon with his rebel horde," she said, "he saw me, in spite of the fact that wherever he went, all girls were immediately hidden from sight on account of the extreme dread with which all parents beheld him. Shortly afterward he secured my address. Although at that time I was only fourteen years old, Villa came to see my father and asked him for my hand in formal marriage, as is customary in this country, and offered my father $30,000, United States money, to assure his future from want.

"In spite of this offer my father, knowing Villa's reputation, did not hesitate to turn the offer down. Villa's answer was that he always got what he wanted, and since he had the power necessary in this case, he would take me by force. This threat was immediately carried out, and Villa, with pistol in hand, forcibly married me. Just before the ceremony, probably as a sort of bribe to make me more friendly toward him, he gave me $5,000 American money to buy suitable clothes with.

Says Villa Was Generous.

"As long as Villa stayed in Torreon and lived with me, which was about a year, he treated me with every consideration, and gave me 500 pesos a month for expenses. It was toward the end of this year that our little daughter was born. Villa showed great love for her, and named her Evangeline.

"The end of our short romance came when the federal troops drove Villa to the mountains in 1915, and I and my baby were left in Torreon with no means of support. I had to go to work as a seamstress, although I had never done such work before.

"In 1921, when Villa surrendered to General Martinez, I hurried to Tiahuallo to see him, and he gave me some money and assured me my troubles were all over. He promised he would send some one to Torreon to arrange for a residence for me, but this promise was never kept.

"In spite of all that has happened I must say that throughout our relations Villa was always very kind to me and seemed to want me to love him, or at least return in part his own love for me.

"At present I do not know what arrangements he has made for me and the little girl, but I do not think we will get anything from his very rich estate."

The story of Juana Torres de Villa has been told in several ways. She was a beautiful girl of pure Spanish stock, educated in the North. Her family became impoverished and she took a position in a store at Torreon, where Villa saw her in 1913. He seized her. She told him she would kill herself unless he married her, and he willingly went through the ceremony. According to most of the stories, she grew to love her captor. A baby girl was born, and Villa sent mother and child to Los Angeles.

Death Reported in Los Angeles.

It was reported in 1917 that she had gone to Chihuahua in the hope of rejoining him, and had been captured by the Carranzistas when they took the city, sent to Mexico City, and there shot by Villa's enemies.

Later reports, however, told of her death in Los Angeles. The child has lived at the Canutillo ranch since then.

Four other children of Villa are said to be known, with their mothers, all of whom are living in Canutillo. Several more women who have lived with Villa at various times now live in El Paso, and have signified their intention of asking for a share of the estate.—New York World.

Man Dies to Prove His Wife Was Wrong

Paris.—For the first time in 20 years of married life, Julien Perrinet proved his wife wrong. But he died to do it.

"How long do I have to endure your nagging?" he asked her.

"Are you sure you're right?" he countered.

"I'm always right," she boasted.

"This time you're wrong," said Perrinet as he shot himself twice through the head. He died instantly.

HAVE SIXTH SENSE

Vipers Believed to Possess Unknown Faculty.

New York Curator Says Exact Nature of Reptile's Sixth Sense Is Incomprehensible to Man.

The intuitive flash commonly known as a hunch or a sixth sense has been explained more or less satisfactorily by Freud and other psychologists as it applies to man, but no one ever psychoanalyzed a snake. Hence the mysterious sixth sense of the lowly pit viper is still a poser.

In the opinion of Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the Bronx zoo, the exact nature of the snake's sixth sense is incomprehensible to man, as he possesses no vestige of the unknown faculty himself.

It is only in that type of snake distinguished by a slight indentation in front of the eyes on each side of the head, and generally known as pit vipers, that the puzzling phenomenon is present. The indentation is the outward indication of a series of two cavities sunk into the snake's skull. It is a simple but delicate organ, well lined with a sensitive membrane and connected with what passes for a brain in the reptile. It is evidently in active operation, and its condition shows that it is not a lingering vestige of an outgrown stage of evolution as are the small bones which prove that snakes once had legs.

The pit viper, which includes the rattlesnake, moccasin, copperhead and "fer-de-lance," has the same rudimentary inner ears as other serpents, and must use its forked tongue on the tuning fork principle to hear. In that connection it is no better than the garden variety of snake. But in most other ways it is infinitely superior. It can almost think.

Inasmuch as the only type of serpent which does display signs of mental power at all is distinguished by the pit it is logical to presume that it is the seat of the snake's sixth sense.

Snakes certainly are not intelligent, says Mr. Ditmars, and they are incapable of reasoning. Yet some of the acts performed by pit vipers can only be explained in one of two ways—either they have a mysterious added sense or they have the capacity for memory and so can profit by experience. Scientists who have studied reptiles are convinced that the former theory is the more tenable.

Such snakes seem to sense the presence or approach of an enemy and even detect the imminence of other forms of danger. Too, they have a homing instinct more remarkable than the homing pigeon, which at least has the advantage of a bird's-eye view. No matter how far afield a rattlesnake may roam in the course of a summer it will invariably return with unerring accuracy to its hibernating place when the air becomes chilly.

There is only one species of pit viper indigenous to the tropics and that displays the same faculty in regard to its regular home as the hibernating species of the North. And its talents as a weather prophet would put to shame the best efforts of our learned experts with all their apparatus.—New York Sun-Globe.

Putting Drama in Its Place.

An idea of some of the difficulties under which people throughout the country labor in any attempt to reap profit from judgment and opinion in matters artistic will be gained from the following experience of the late Creston Clarke, the actor:

While playing in a good-sized city he was approached one day on the street by an eager young man, who said:

"How do you do, Mr. Clarke? I saw your performance last night. I'm on the—"

"Oh!" said Mr. Clarke. "And how do you like newspaper work?"

"I think it's fine," replied the youth. "I'm just starting in at it. I'm only dramatic critic now, but if I do well they're going to give me police work."—From Everybodys Magazine.

Poor Henry!

A Baltimore man who was formerly a resident of a town on the Eastern Shore recently revisited his old home town after an absence of many years. One day he was talking with an old friend about various people he formerly knew.

"What became of the Hall family?" he inquired.

"Oh," said the latter, "Tom Hall did very well. Got to be an actor out on the Pacific coast. Bill, the other brother, is something of an artist in New York, and Lucy, the sister, is doing literary work. But Henry never amounted to much. It took all he could lay his hands on to support the others."—From the Baltimore Sun.

A Repeater.

Insurance Agent—Pardon me, madam, but what is your age?

Miss Antique—I have seen twenty-three summers.

Insurance Agent—Yes, of course! But how many times have you seen them?—From the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Sensitive.

"Stranger, where are you from?"

"Washington."

"Ah, Washington! First in war, first in peace—"

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say Tanlac is nature's most perfect remedy," is the far-reaching statement given out for publication, recently, by Mrs. I. A. Borden, 425 Pontius Ave., Seattle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, Chicago.

"I have used Tanlac exclusively for seven years in the treatment of my charity patients," said Mrs. Borden, "and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal.

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach, not even water. I prevailed on her to try Tanlac and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after-effects.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on Tanlac and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and able to work.

"These two instances are typical of the wonderful merits of the medicine. My confidence in Tanlac is unlimited."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Leave It to Pat.

An Irishman, passing a shop where a notice was displayed saying that everything was sold by the yard, thought he would play a joke on the shopkeeper, so he entered and asked for a yard of milk. The shopkeeper, without hesitation, dipped his fingers in a bowl of milk and drew a line a yard long on the counter.

Pat, not wishing to be caught in his own trap, asked the price.

"Sixpence," was the reply.

"All right, sir," said Pat. "Roll it up; I'll take it."

The Cuticura Toilet Trio.

Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your everyday toilet preparations. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them.—Advertisement.

In Wrong.

The worst thing about being a pedestrian in a town where the majority of inhabitants are motor car owners is that you get no sympathy when you start cussing the chronic cut-out fiends and the horn-honkers.

The Real Reason.

It was summer-time, and the master had been entertaining the boys in his own garden and feeding them with generous supplies of strawberries and cream.

"Have you enjoyed your strawberry feast?" he asked as they were leaving.

"Oh, yes, sir!" came the reply.

"Then," asked the master, seeking to a point a moral, "if you had slipped into my garden and picked those strawberries without my leave would they have tasted as good?"

"No, sir."

"Why not?" he asked.

"Because," said one small urchin, with an air of conscious virtue, "we shouldn't have had any sugar or cream with them."

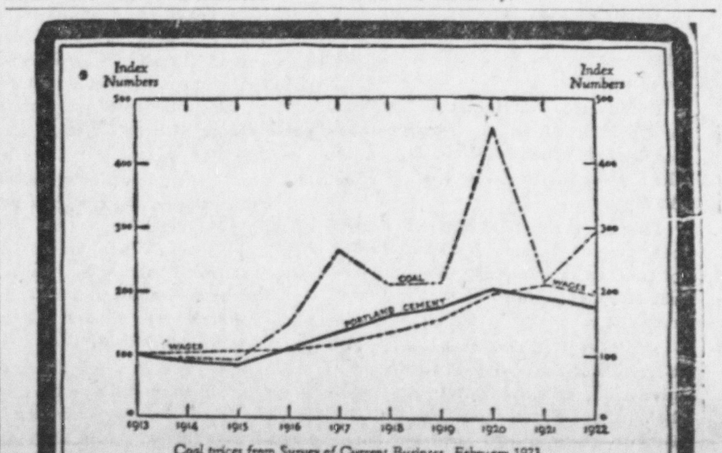
That Would Settle It.

"There's only one way to make aviation safe."

"Yeh; what's that?"

"Have some good lawyers prove that the law of gravitation is unconstitutional."

Italy has not a single coal mine in all her territory.



Coal prices from Survey of Current Business, February 1923.
Cement prices from U. S. Geological Survey.
Wages, from November (1922) Monthly Labor Review, Bureau of Labor Statistics.

More for Your Money

Swapping things—as when our grandmothers traded eggs for calico at the cross-roads store—gives a better understanding of values. By measuring one thing against another we too can often judge values more clearly.

Coal and wages make up more than half the manufacturing cost of cement.

The chart above shows price fluctuations for portland cement, coal and wages during the past ten years. In each case 100 is used to represent 1913 figures, by the Government departments which compiled these statistics.

Translated into "eggs and calico" language, this chart shows that a ton of coal would buy nearly twice as much cement in 1922 as in 1913. A day's wages also would buy more cement in 1922 than in 1913.

This means that even though coal and wages make up more than half its manufacturing cost, cement is now relatively lower in price than either coal or wages.

So, considering these increased costs, it is plain that in buying cement you get more for your money than before.

Miss Ruth Howley, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Jared Holmes, of Philadelphia, departed on Sunday for that city where Miss Howley will enter the University hospital to have braces for her limbs repaired. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howley, her parents, accompanied them as far as Tyrone. It was 7 years ago when Miss Howley was first taken to the Philadelphia institution, being crippled sadly by rheumatism. The braces were then made and her limbs straightened and held in place by so that she has since been improving and during the past year was able to resume work as an operator in the local Commercial exchange. While the severe pain that attends rheumatism has left and Miss Howley is able to get about somewhat again, her limbs are still out of joint, the physician saying that the ligaments are so drawn that to get the joints properly in the socket would necessitate cutting the leaders and she would then be helpless. With the braces, she can get about and the pain has been apparently done away with, good news to her wide circle of friends.

Edward O. Strub'e was called to Harrisburg on Monday for a meeting of Pennsy employe representatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tarbert and daughter, of York, have been guests at the home of Mrs. Tarbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Coxey, and sister, Mrs. Leif Olsen. They motored here on Saturday, planning to return on Sunday. They went to Clearfield by train on Monday to spend a short time with Mrs. Tarbert's brother, Eugene Coxey, and wife, returning to Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Rev. Reed O. Steely was in Williamsport Tuesday attending a district ministerial meeting. He had been at Altoona on Sunday evening and addressed a union meeting of the Evangelical churches. This morning he, in company with Rev. Raffensperger, presiding elder of Williamsport district; Rev. Currin, of Williamsport, and Rev. Keen, of State College, went to Johnstown, as fellowship delegates to witness the merging of the two Pittsburgh Conferences of the Evangelical church into one.

Mrs. Mollie Payne accompanied her son, William Payne, yesterday to Mexico, where the latter has gone in quest of health. Mr. Payne is one of last year's graduates from the Pennsylvania State College. He is a most pleasing young man and naturally has a host of friends who wish him success in his trip. Contracting a severe cold while in camp during the summer at Mt. Gretna, the trouble did not respond to treatment and bronchitis has developed. Mr. Payne had secured a remunerative position as instructor of a vocational school near Erie, the largest in the state, and leaves the good old Keystone with keen regret, but with a determination to safe-guard his health in time. The Paynes' furnished home, with 7 rooms and conveniences, will be rented to some desirable tenant by John B. Payne, who will look after the property during their absence, which will likely be 10 or 12 months.

STATE COLLEGE ENROLLMENT

Opening of 69th Year Yesterday With Over 3,000 Students.

At the official opening of the 69th year of the Penna. State College yesterday morning, formal exercises were presided over by President John M. Thomas. Several of the trustees were present including Judge H. Walton Mitchell, of Pittsburgh, and Chas. M. Schwab.

Over 3,000 students are enrolled for the present term. More than 300 are women students, 40 of whom will reside in campus buildings, others among State College homes. The doors of the auditorium opened about 10:15 and the exercises started at 10:30 o'clock.

Care Prevents Accidents.

While there were a very large number of automobiles on the highway between Bellefonte and Centre Hall, and other roads leading to Centre Hall, on account of the Grange Encampment being held there last week, there were no serious accidents reported. This would indicate that the drivers are more careful when traffic is known to be heavy, and care prevents accidents.

$110 For Hospital.

In the benefit game of base ball on Sunday afternoon at Hecla Park between the Bellefonte Elks and the Hecla nine, the latter won by a score of 3—1. The proceeds was for the Bellefonte hospital and amounted to $110. A large crowd attended the game.

Dr. Heaton for Coroner.

Owing to the absence of Dr. W. R. Heaton, County Coroner, who was taking post-graduate work at the Harvard University Medical College in Boston, he failed to file nomination papers for re election to that office. As it is his desire to be re-elected he takes this method of asking the voters of Centre County to write his name in the block prepared for it on the ballot which they will cast at the coming primaries.

FALL OPENING IN ALTOONA BOOSTER STORES

A change has been made in the date for Altoona Booster Stores' Fall Opening. The date has been changed to Friday evening, Sept. 14, at 7:30 o'clock, when all the windows will be unveiled at the given time showing the beautiful things new for Fall and Winter.

The Style Show will continue over Saturday and out of town visitors will be made welcome. Many will want to be in Altoona to see the opening when things are fresh and new, if only to get ideas as to what will be fashionable for the season that is just opening.

On Friday evening, during the unveiling, the famous Altoona Band will furnish music on the main thoroughfares to inaugurate the event. If you can't come for the opening Friday evening come and stay all day Saturday. Make a visit to Community Rest Rooms on Fifteenth St., which was inaugurated for your benefit. Nothing for sale, but everything for your comfort. Bring the family.
